Uncovered returned to their regular Halloween haunt, Pops Pub West, Oct. 30.

they had a full, and fully costumed house to hear them play all their favourite '80s and '90s rock, pop and country hits.

The band, Chris “Juno” Craig, Danny Douglas, Kelly Klimchuk, Ryan Kasteel and lead singer Alison Hawkins Fehr were having a lot of fun playing their favourites.

Alison Hawkins-Fehr was busy belting out Keith Urban’s “I Want to Love Somebody like You” as I arrived before jumping right into a spirited version of Katrina and the Waves’ “Walking on Sunshine.”

Chris Juno Craig, followed it up with Roxettes’s “She’s Got the Look” before Hawkins-Fehr returned with The Dixie Chicks’s hit “Goodbye Earl.”

Juno added a great version of Hall and Oates' '80s hit "Maneater."
