Local classic rock titans the Chevelles always get the pretty girls moving and put smiles on faces, usually for a good cause.

This time they were helping the Lethbridge Amateur Wrestling Association at the Place, May 26.

They played their usual mix of classic rock, '80s pop and a few modern numbers. I arrived in the middle of a hot version of Bryan Adams' "Summer of '69."

There was a wedding in the house, so frontman Tim Carter gave a shout out to the bride and her bridesmaids and dedicated reggae hit "Everything Is Going to be All Right to the wedding party.

As usual Scott Kanashiro was doing triple duty on guitar, keyboards and vocals. He switched to acoustic guitar for "Cadillac Ranch."

They got down with "Play the at Funky Music White Boy)"

Bassist Joe Brewster (Seamus Chevelle) sang lead on a couple songs including "867-5309
